The Department of Library our institution organised the one-day State level online Webinar on Intellectual Property Right. This workshop resource person was Dr. Sarmila Godge. The development and application of Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) has changed the way information is generated, stored and accessed by users. The pervasive nature of ICT facilitates publishing, distribution, access and use of information resources. Information which was only available in print format is now available in digital format as well. Besides, ICT development has made it possible to develop affordable and accessible Open Educational Resources (OER) which are key to equitable and inclusive learning. According to UNESCO (2002) OER are any type of educational materials that are in the public domain or are introduced with an open license. UNESCO (2002) further posits that, the nature of these open materials means that anyone can legally and freely copy, use, adapt and re-share them. They include textbooks to curricula, syllabi, lecture notes, assignments, tests, projects, audio, video and animation. In fact, OER have enabled marginalized and underprivileged communities of students, entry into the main stream of education and learning. Given the escalating cost of books in many institutions, OER forms an important source of information in supporting teaching, learning and research.
